GD4 Test Services, Inc.

Dear Mr. Jastroch:

After working with your company for a number of years, I felt I had to take a moment and correct a significant oversight. I realized during this period I had never stopped to tell you and your staff what an amazing job you and your company have performed on behalf of Bluefin.

As a result, I would like to express Bluefin's gratitude for the remarkable level of service you have provided and the professionalism you have demonstrated during our working relationship. As I look back, it is apparent your company has always been more than willing to take the extra step or carry that additional burden necessary to meet our requirements. Just the process of allowing one of our major customers, a significant defense contractor, access to your company and your personnel to discuss the services and manner in which you support Bluefin was, without doubt, a major investment of your time as well as very important to our on-going relationship with this defense company. Obviously, as you are well aware, the time at your facility convinced our customer to place a significant amount of business with Bluefin which continues on to this day.

Also, from a day-to-day standpoint, we appreciate both the expediency with which you perform the required testing and the thoroughness of the test reports provided. It is uncommon for a provider such as GD4 to repeatedly meet difficult deadlines; yet you continue to do so with impressive consistency. Additionally, what we have always found to be of great value about your company is that we always feel as if we have a resource to tap when dealing with test issues. I can think of a number of times when your staff has taken the time to join us in a conference call with one of our customers to help them better understand the test results and assist them in arriving at a level of comfort as it relates to the components delivered. This is not a common practice but, again, an example of the support level inherent in your company's culture.

In closing, the entire staff at Bluefin would like to simply say, "Thank You" to you and your entire staff for the remarkable service you have provided Bluefin and, by default, our customers. There is no question that our success has been greatly enhanced by your support and assistance over the years and it is greatly appreciated. We look forward to many more years of growth and success and feel GD4 is a critical component in achieving these objectives.
